 By Remy Sison
 THE PHILIPPINE AIR FORCE (PAF) is preparing to evacuate a critically injured American woman, Angela Drily, from a remote area in Mindanao. The woman, who is in her late 20s, was injured during a conflict in the region. The PAF is coordinating with the US military for the medevac. The evacuation is expected to be completed within the next few days. The cost of the medevac is expected to be low, as the PAF is providing the service at a reduced rate.

FPJ, Loren file protests

Allege fraud in 124,404 poll precincts
 By Philip L. Sison
 THE PHILIPPINE COMMISSION ON GOOD GOVERNANCE (PCGG) has filed protests with the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) against the results of the 2010 national elections. The protests are based on allegations of fraud in 124,404 poll precincts. The PCGG claims that the results were manipulated to favor the ruling administration. The protests were filed on July 24, 2010. The COMELEC is expected to review the protests and take appropriate action.

Angela's journey ends where it all began
 By Remy Sison
 Angela Drily's journey from a remote area in Mindanao to a hospital in the Philippines has ended where it all began. The woman, who was injured during a conflict in the region, has been evacuated to a hospital in the Philippines. The evacuation was a long and difficult process, but it has finally been completed. The woman is now receiving medical treatment at the hospital. Her journey is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit.

Can RP be trusted again to keep its word? US asks

By Joseph D. Lina
 THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF STATE has asked the Philippines to provide more information about the results of the 2010 national elections. The US State Department is concerned about the allegations of fraud in the elections and wants to ensure that the results are accurate. The Philippines is expected to provide the requested information within a short period of time.

ON THE HOUSE They could have danced all night

By Remy Sison
 The Philippines and the United States could have danced all night if the results of the 2010 national elections had been different. The two countries have a long history of cooperation, and the results of the elections could have strengthened that relationship. However, the allegations of fraud in the elections have put the relationship on hold. The Philippines is expected to provide more information about the results of the elections, and the US State Department is expected to review that information.

No apologies, I stuck to my oath, GMA replies

By John G. Reyes
 GMA Network has replied to a letter from the Philippine Commission on Good Governance (PCGG) regarding the results of the 2010 national elections. GMA Network stated that it has no apologies and that it stuck to its oath. The PCGG had accused GMA Network of manipulating the results of the elections. GMA Network has denied these accusations and has stated that it is committed to providing accurate and fair coverage of the elections.

Higher tariffs no excuse to raise oil prices, says Neda

By Michelle V. Arana

THE IMPENDING increase in tariff duties on oil imports should not be used by local oil companies to increase the prices of their petroleum products, the National Economic and Development Authority (Neda) said yesterday.

"The tariff increase does not intend to increase petroleum prices," said Economic Planning Secretary Romulo Neri, adding that the move to raise the tariff was only intended to generate more revenues and take advantage of the declining world prices of petroleum without harming consumers.

The Neda Board, the government's highest policy making body and which is chaired by President Macapagal-Arroyo, approved on Thursday the increase of petroleum tariff from three percent to five percent.

The President was expected yesterday to issue an executive order that will implement the tariff hike before the 13th Congress opens on Monday.

Neri, who is also director general of Neda, said the two percentage points increase in petroleum tariff coincides with the decreasing oil prices in the world market.

He said the decline in oil prices was one of the factors which prompted the government to raise the tariff on oil imports, saying it wanted to take advantage of the downward trend so that local consumers will not be burdened by an oil price hike.

In reaction to the increase in tariffs, local oil companies warned that the move would result in higher oil prices.

In a position paper, Caltex Philippines said the two percentage points increase in petroleum tariffs could push up the price of its Vortex Gold by 32 centavos a liter.

Caltex added that prices of its Vortex Silver and regular unleaded products could increase by 31 centavos a liter, while the cost of its diesel and kerosene products could jump by 30 centavos. Price of its fuel oil could increase by 19 centavos a liter.

The Executive Department took advantage of the recess of Congress by deciding to hike petroleum tariffs to raise more revenues for the cash-strapped government.

The President can only issue an executive order raising tariffs if Congress is in recess. Otherwise, the tariff hike should pass Congress's legislation, which usually takes much longer time than the issuance of an executive order.

Finance Secretary Juanita Amarong yesterday explained that the executive order increasing petroleum tariff would only be temporary.

Amarong said that once Congress passes a bill that will increase the excise tax on petroleum products, the executive order will cease to be in effect.

The Inter-agency Development Budget Coordinating Committee (DBCC), which sets the government's economic policies and targets, is pushing for a P2 increase in excise tax on petroleum products.

The excise-tax adjustment for petroleum is part of the economic team's proposed tax measures intended to solve the government's fiscal problem.

NEWSBRIEFS

Lorenzo refutes own men on US aid report

LA TRINIDAD, Benquet—Outgoing Agriculture Secretary Luis Lorenzo Jr. yesterday laughed off reports that the United States is reviewing all its agreements with the Philippines after Mulcahans pulled out the Filipino troops from Iraq to save the life of kidnapped truck driver Angelo de la Cruz.

US Ambassador to the Philippines Francis Ricciardone "is on vacation," and is not in Washington to receive instructions about a softening in Philippine-US relations as the local media have insinuated, Lorenzo told the inquirer here. In fact, he said, US Agriculture Secretary Ann Veneman had advised him the US was ready to release the country's $30-million share from the US commodity loan program on July 29. He said Veneman responded to an INQUIRER report that quoted Agriculture Assistant Secretary Segredo Serrano about the unexplained delays in the release of the share. America's Public Law 480 program supervises the commodity loan which benefits the agricultural programs of developing countries. The share translates to surplus commodities such as rice or corn, which could be bought to reinforce or replenish government stocks. Vicente Calaza, PDI Northern Luzon Bureau

Church group vs jueteng airs lament

THE Catholic Church-led National Crusade against Jueteng (Krusada) has lost an arm in its fight against the illegal numbers game with the appointment of a pro-jueteng chief at the Department of Interior and Local Government. Pangasinan Archbishop Oscar Cruz, founder of the Krusada, said that the advocacy group did not expect any help from the DILG this time because of Interior Secretary Angelo Reyes' sentiments on jueteng. "I don't expect DILG will help us because Angelo Reyes already said he wants jueteng legalized. To expect he'll join us is a little dreamy," Cruz said in an interview.

Unlike former DILG chief Jose Lina, Reyes said in a radio interview soon after his appointment that he would prefer to legalize jueteng as it would be more beneficial to the government. Reyes' suggestion, however, was met with strong criticisms from the influential Catholic Church and a cold shoulder from President Macapagal-Arroyo herself.

"That statement was practically surrendering, an admission of the incapacity to eradicate jueteng," Cruz said, adding that the police had proven in December last year that concerted efforts could rid the country of jueteng.

The archbishop said that while Lina would continue to work with Krusada, the group would not approach Reyes for any assistance unless the DILG itself extends a hand. The Krusada linked with a new partner, the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines' National Secretariat for Social Action, Justice and Peace (CBCP-Naspa). Manolo S. Rivera

Rest of RP contingent arriving Wednesday

THE military said yesterday the last batch of the country's humanitarian contingent to Iraq composed of 34 soldiers are scheduled to arrive on Wednesday via Kuwait. "I understand from the latest schedule, they will be arriving Wednesday of next week," Armed Forces Chief Gen. Narciso Abaya told reporters yesterday in Camp Aguinaldo. The soldiers were scheduled to arrive earlier but had problems booking a flight to Manila. Abaya said a "simple and austere" ceremony will be held a day after the arrival to honor the troops and hand out awards to deserving members of the contingent. He said Defense Secretary Eduardo Ermita is expected to give an "inspirational message" to the returning soldiers. Alvin Papa

King or hunter: Exploring the masculine self

HOW does it feel to be a man these days? Is manhood celebrated? What are issues special to men? What is the male psyche?

To answer these questions, the Friends of Jung Society of the Philippines will hold a two-day men's workshop at the Ricco-Renzo Galleries in Makati City from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Aug. 13, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 14, 2004.

Lectures, archetypes of the male psyche, and a riveting myth will be the tools used for this inner exploration. An instrument especially designed for this workshop will also be given to enhance awareness.

Resource persons are Dr. Dido Gustilo, Raj Mansukhani, Bernie Nepomuceno, Sophia Sim-Bata, Alex Tee and Rose Marie Yenko. These persons are steeped in the field of Jungian psychology and have taught Jungian classes at the Ateneo de Manila University and De La Salle University.

Only 20 slots are available. Workshop fee is P4,800. This includes materials, snacks, merienda and lunch. For reservations, call Marina at 892-46-10 and 0917-815-61-43, and Lito at 898-38-26 and 0916-302-3763.

Looters, thrill-seekers
damage shipwreck

By Cheryl E. Jones

On the 100th anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic, the shipwreck has become a magnet for looters and thrill-seekers, who have damaged the wreck and its surrounding area.

Peso breaches 56:$1; rally seen next week

By Maria C. Ochoa

The peso's performance over time, with a peak around 56:1 and a subsequent decline. The graph shows a sharp increase from 0 to 56, followed by a decline to 54, and then a slight recovery to 55.

Firms back Vat hike proposal

By Maria C. Ochoa

The firms' support for the VAT hike proposal is a significant development in the ongoing debate over the country's fiscal policy. The proposal, which aims to increase the value-added tax rate from 12% to 15%, has been met with mixed reactions from various stakeholders. However, the backing of the business community, which represents a large portion of the country's GDP, is a strong indicator of the proposal's potential success.

2-step VAT hike eyed

By Maria C. Ochoa

The government is considering a two-step approach to implementing the VAT hike. The first step would involve increasing the rate from 12% to 13.5%, and the second step would involve a further increase to 15%. This approach is designed to ease the burden on businesses and consumers by spreading the impact of the hike over a longer period.

The government's decision to implement the VAT hike in two steps is a pragmatic response to the challenges faced by the country's economy. While the hike is necessary to generate additional revenue for the government, it is also important to ensure that the impact on businesses and consumers is minimized. The two-step approach provides a more gradual and manageable way to achieve this goal.

Super

Finding your Super! strength

Lemon-aide

Giselle Segovia

I THINK I read too much Q.

Saturday, July 24

I have yet to meet a person who is good at nothing. I think every human being arrived on this planet with at least one exceptional talent. It doesn't have to be an amazing, out-of-this-world, Ripley's kind of thing—it can be something as simple as being great at driving or putting on a sweater. Not a lot of people are gifted with marvelous maneuvering skills and I would say that really good, smooth drivers are very rare. This weekend, you can reflect on yourself. Focus on your strengths and work on your weaknesses. Today, I suggest you get a pen and paper (or you can just use your computer if it's easier) and list down all the things you can do really well. Write down each little detail—you can be great at eating (I know I am!), working out, riding a horse, doing your things, you can be a genius at math, incredible at writing (like Tala, Marlin and Gino are). Enumerate them all. When you're done jotting them down, read it out loud and listen to yourself owning your list. Hopefully, seeing everything you are good at on paper will empower you and make you feel that you're actually not half as bad as you sometimes think you are.

Sunday, July 25

Between family activities and shopping at the mall, find time to make a list of things about yourself you would like to improve on and specify ways on how you will actually make progress. Put that on your goal catalog and be sure to do something every day to achieve your target. You have to be your own critic and be careful when you judge yourself!

Monday, July 26

Now that you've been rejuvenated by the weekend's positive frenzy into the realm of psychosis, it's time for you to celebrate Super's 1st Year Anniversary with us. It's a week-long affair that will kick off this night. The first event to look forward to is the Super Awards—we shall be giving awards to young, innovative Super People who are making conspicuous marks in various areas of expertise. Cocktails will be served as names are unveiled. After the awards are given out, we will be screening "Twehla" at My Cinema around 9 p.m. Join us on this night.

Tuesday, July 27

It's the evening for singers and singer wannabes (Yup, not again!) as Super treats you to a night of videoke at Red Box, Greenbelt 3, Makati City. Try and rent your lyrics the whole day so you will have the vocal power to belt out on this evening. The party starts at 6 p.m. and ends at 12 midnight. See ya there!

Wednesday, July 28

Sure, you strained your voice the night before. But don't worry, you definitely wouldn't be singing on this evening. Get a talika at Pili gro (Aguirre St., Legaspi Village, Makati City) and watch the Fantabulous total Mixie with our very own Pam Pastor on the microphone! Their first set starts 9:00. Don't miss it.

Thursday, July 29

Beauty rest, guys. Try to find an outfit for the Pump and Fly's party the next night. It's your chance to bring out the slink in you!

Friday, July 30

Finally! Super celebrates its first anniversary party with a Pump and Fly-themed bash at the Expo Exchange in Greenbelt, 9 p.m. Take out your handcuffs and your chains, put on your tiniest skirts and wear the cherry red lipstick that you've never had the chance to use. It's time to party the Super way. A DJ will be flying in just for this spectacular festivity. There's a P500 door charge but you can get free invites by sending (inquirer stop) (your name) (your city) (last) (what you think about super). Send to 2207 for Globe and 2203 for Smart. (Example: inquirer stop lastel jay malabon fest i love super)

A little footnote: before you wear your crazy outfit, drop by True Girl Magazine's Launch party at Club V Mile Long Compound, Makati City. It's hip-hop night for contest sports aficionados. See posters and flyers for more details or call Syntex Inc., 900-2860 for inquiries.

Battling up grief over a fatal miscarriage
warms depression, and her drive

By David M. Ford
The first time she felt her baby move, she knew she had lost him. She had lost him to a miscarriage.
She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage.

She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage. She had lost him to a miscarriage.
